Enable Policymakers To Make Informed Decisions

CSBA is an independent policy research institute established to promote innovative thinking and debate on national security strategy and investment options. CSBA's goal is to enable policymakers to make informed decisions on matters of strategy, security policy, and resource allocation.

CSBA relies on charitable contributions and grants to support its public education programs, including research, writing and publishing studies and briefs, testifying before congressional committees, presenting to academic, civic, and professional groups, and interacting with the media. CSBA enjoys support for its research from foundation, government, corporate and individual sponsors who share our conviction that the best analysis is produced by expert researchers free to identify and explore cutting-edge issues and to take a long-term perspective.

Sponsors who support CSBA's work value and respect its independence and insights. CSBA is a 501(c) 3 tax exempt organization and contributions are tax deductible to the extent allowed by law.

To make a tax-deductible charitable contribution to CSBA, please complete and mail the CSBA donation form:
