

Center for Strategic and Budgetary Assessments

ANALYSIS

China Hasn't Won the Pacific (Unless You Think It Has)

January 5, 2018 | BloombergView

By: Hal Brands

Related Expert: Hal Brands

Is China destined to dominate the Asia-Pacific? Among U.S. allies and partners in the region, there seems to be a growing doubt that America can win the ongoing competition for influence with China, and that they must begin preparing for a regional order headed by Beijing. The challenge for America, then, is to ensure that this feeling of strategic fatalism doesn't become a self-fulfilling prophecy.